Bosque del Apache, Socorro, New Mexico Photographing Sandhill Cranes & Snow Geese

Thursday, November 10, 3 PM - Sunday, November 13, Noon

Thousands of birds migrate to Bosque del Apache Reserve each winter to enjoy the mild temperatures and feed on the corn fields harvested in the fall. The flocks of birds photograph handsomely in the gorgeous New Mexico sunrise and sunset light. Between the hours of magical light, there are wonderful opportunities to photograph behavior and feeding in the fields. The reserve is beautiful and compact so that it is easy to optimize your photography time. Join Fotomentours and learn how to improve your ability to photograph these incredible flocks of birds.

New Mexico is beautiful at this time of year. The Bosque refuge is located near the Very Large Array, featured in the movie Contact, starring Jodie Foster. Enjoy our visit to the Array, fascinating to see and photograph. New Mexico boasts abundant unique, memorable photo opportunities.
